Historical and Biographical Notes

The fifty-first governor of Missouri, Melvin “Mel” Eugene Carnahan was born in Birch Tree, Shannon County, Missouri, on February 11, 1934. He graduated from George Washington University with a bachelor’s degree in business administration, served in the US Air Force, then returned to Missouri to earn a law degree from the University of Missouri-Columbia. He married Jean Carpenter in 1954 and they settled in Rolla. A Democrat, Mel Carnahan began his political career in 1962 when he was elected to the Missouri House of Representatives from Phelps County. In 1980, he was elected state treasurer and, eight years later, lieutenant governor. In a landslide victory against Republican William L. Webster, Carnahan won the governorship in 1992. He retained office in the 1996 election against Republican Margaret Kelly.

A number of issues marked Governor Carnahan’s administration. Early in his tenure, he was confronted with the great flood of 1993 and its aftermath. Welfare reform, anti-crime legislation, and government reorganization, all were high on his agenda. But it was his commitment to the children of Missouri, from the Outstanding Schools Act of 1993 to health care services, that he poured most of his energy and resources.

On October 16, 2000, Governor Carnahan, his son Randy Carnahan, and Chris Sifford, the governor’s former chief of staff, were killed in a plane crash during a US Senate campaign trip. Because Carnahan’s name could not be removed from the ballot, Governor Roger B. Wilson said he would appoint Jean Carnahan to the position. A month after his death, in a first in US history, Mel Carnahan won a seat in the US Senate against former governor John Ashcroft.

Extent: 3.3 cubic ft. (6 Hollinger boxes and 4 partials)

Arrangement: Alphabetical by surname

Scope and Content

This series includes records concerning executive clemency for non-capital cases. For capital or death penalty appeals, see the series Execution Files. Clemencies may be one of three types: pardon, commutation of sentence, or restoration of civil rights. Notable cases are Gayle Boone, a woman who pled guilty to second-degree murder but later claimed it was in self-defense, and Johnny Lee Wilson, a mentally challenged man who was released after the governor's legal staff determined his confession was false. There are also several cases of female abuse victims who killed their abusers. Many pardons were issued by Governor Roger Wilson just before he left office in January 2001.

Execution Files, 1993-2000

Extent: 11 cubic ft. (26 Hollinger boxes and 3 partials)

Arrangement: Alphabetical by surname

Scope and Content

This series consists of records concerning death penalty cases reviewed by the governor's legal staff, including many extending back to the administration of John Ashcroft and a few from Kit Bond's administration. Not all sentences were carried out: some were overturned by the courts, sent to retrial, commuted to lesser sentences, or pardoned. A file may contain one or more of the following: applications for clemency, commutation, or pardon and supporting documentation; constituent correspondence; legal correspondence; warrants and stays of execution; statements made by the governor; witness lists for executions; audiocassettes and videotapes. All copies of court records were purged except for those included within the actual clemency applications.

Notable cases include Darrell Mease (commuted to life without parole at request of visiting Pope John Paul II); Bobby Lewis Shaw (commuted because of mental illness); and Alan Jeffrey Bannister (drew international attention but was executed on October 22, 1997).

Some constituent correspondence covers more than one inmate; for instance, correspondence on Emmett Nave, Richard Oxford, and Thomas Battle, who were all executed with a month's span. Lloyd Schlup's case was the first time the gubernatorial board of inquiry was convened. Although another was ordered for William Theodore Boliek, Jr., no report is found in these records.

See the series Clemency Files for executive clemency files for prisoners in non-capital cases.

Extraditions, 1992-2000

Extent: 17.6 cubic ft. (44 Hollinger boxes)

Arrangement: Chronological by year (per date filed with governor's office) and thereunder alphabetical by surname

Scope and Content

This series consists of records concerning extradition of fugitives from Missouri residing in other states (domestic extraditions) or fugitives from other states residing in Missouri (foreign extraditions). Included in these records are summary database lists of extraditions from 1993–1995. Records on individual fugitives may include petitions for requisition, correspondence, supporting documentation (e.g., photographs, fingerprints, details of alleged crimes), and warrants for arrest. A few letters concern medical parole for individuals already in Missouri prisons. Waivers of extradition are found at the end of each year from 1993-1995. For 1994, the waivers include some 1991-1993 waivers that lack a date-filed stamp but apparently were filed with the governor's office around January 1994.

A later accession sent over by the administration of Governor Holden includes mostly waivers (1993-2000), a small number of which were undated. Also included were some executive agreements (1996-2000), extradition files (1993-2000), and lists of waivers (1992-1999) from St. Louis and Jackson County (Kansas City). These materials are all filed together in six Hollinger boxes but are interspersed in the finding aid at the appropriate dates and are noted as (Addition).

NOTE: Social security numbers are confidential.

Legal Files, 1984-2001

Extent: 15.6 cubic ft. (38 Hollinger boxes and 2 partials)

Arrangement: Alphabetical

Scope and Content

This series consists of subject files and related correspondence kept by the office of the legal counsel to the governor. A wide variety of topics are found here that required legal review, including legislative proposals, litigation, deeds and easements, and inmate complaints, especially of mistreatment in private Texas prisons.

Some appointment correspondence is found here, including substantial files on the Conservation Commission, the Central Missouri State University Board of Governors, the Commission on the Special Health, Psychological and Social Needs of Minority Older Individuals, and the Public Service Commission. These files appear to have once been part of a larger collection that was either destroyed or not sent to the archives.

This series (bulk 1993-1996) includes subject files and related correspondence kept by the governor's chiefs of staff and their deputies. Topics of substance include education issues, health and welfare reform, the flood of 1993 and its aftermath, the tax-related Hancock Amendment II, the Missouri National Guard, the Page Avenue extension in St. Louis, and alleged financial mismanagement on the Kansas City Board of Police Commissioners.

An interagency strategic planning project in 1997-2000 called Show Me Results examined and reported on five key areas: education, health, prosperity, responsible government (includes capital assets and water & land resources), and safety.

A small number of old files left by Governor Ashcroft for the new administration are included here, mostly cases of continuing litigation such as dioxin at Times Beach and state boundary lines.
